In-State Undergraduate Students Invest in Your Education

The College Opportunity Fund (COF) provides a tuition stipend for in-state undergraduate students attending participating public and private colleges and universities in the state of Colorado. The tuition stipend is deducted from total in-state tuition. Students who do not apply for the stipend will be responsible for the full amount of their tuition.

How can I take advantage of the tuition stipend?

- Apply by completing a one-time stipend application.
- Be eligible to pay in-state tuition at a participating public college or university, or meet the qualifications for eligibility at a participating private college. Find more information on participating colleges and eligibility criteria in the FAQs section at: <https://cofweb.cslp.org/cofapp/>.
- Authorize your college to request this funding on your behalf.

How much in-state tuition does the stipend pay?

The stipend is $92 per credit hour for students attending participating public colleges and universities during the 2008-2009 academic year. Eligible students attending participating private colleges and universities receive half the stipend amount per credit hour. The stipend amount is set annually by the Colorado General Assembly and may vary from year to year.

How long can I take advantage of the tuition stipend?

The state of Colorado will pay its portion of each eligible undergraduate student's tuition each year up to 145 credit hours. The state will also pay the same portion of tuition for Postsecondary Enrollment Option classes or Fast Track classes while the student is in high school.

Additional Information:

- Students must be at least 13 years of age to complete the stipend application.
- Students 18 years or older are required to provide documentation to prove legal presence in the United States pursuant to Colorado statute.
- Students are not required to know where they will attend school prior to completing the stipend application.
- Completing the stipend application creates an account that remains active for as long as the student is an undergraduate or until the 145 hours allotted to the student are exhausted.
- Students authorize the use of these hours when they register for classes at their college.
- There are no income qualifications for students attending participating public colleges and universities in the state of Colorado.
